Protests Speed Action To Halt McCarthy Army Hearings

Senator Sees No Indication Of Early End

Washington (AP)—A swelling chorus of senatorial complaints that the McCarthy-Army hearings are hurting the Republican party, the Senate and the country, spurred efforts yesterday to cut them short.

But Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) ruled out suggestions he said had been made that the doors be closed and that future witnesses be heard in private.

"I suggested that in the beginning but it can't be done now," he said.

At the same time Mundt said the Senate has found no workable formula to save time by avoiding excursions into what some members regard as strictly side issues or to reduce the number of questions asked witnesses.

And Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) would give no assurances on how long he and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, intend to keep Secretary of Army Stevens under questioning.

Stevens resumes the stand today in the eighth day of televised hearings into his charges that McCarthy and his aides sought to use the power of the Senate Investigating Committee to get favored Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former consultant to the committee.

McCarthy said upon his return to Washington from week-end speaking engagements in Wisconsin that he saw no indication of a shortened hearing.

Asked if any "pressure" had been exerted by anyone to shorten the hearing, McCarthy said he had not been approached in that regard because he hadn't initiated the hearing. He said he considers the hearing "the greatest waste of time" he has experienced since he has been in Washington, but since it has been started the committee should go through with it.

Asked to estimate how long he thought the hearing would continue McCarthy replied that at the present rate it probably would extend into 1970.

"By 1970," he said with a smile, "we should know how a private got promoted to private."

He said in response to another question that he would be "awfully surprised" if Stevens concluded his testimony today.

Exemption Of $800 Is Urged

Washington (AP)—Prof. Alvin H. Hansen, widely known Harvard political economist, says an $800 personal income tax exemption would only equal in purchasing power the $500 exemption in effect in 1944.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said yesterday he has forwarded a statement of Hansen's views to the Senate Finance Committee for study in connection with its consideration of a general tax revision bill now before it.

Hansen urges an increase in the income tax exemption and recommends elimination from the measure of a provision which would cut taxation on income from dividends. Both recommendations are in line with demands of many Democrats in the Senate, and are opposed by the administration.

Another group called for a balanced budget as the first step if necessary by adding a manufacturers' sales tax on everything except food and medicine, and said that when income taxes can be cut, this should be done by lowering rates rather than increasing exemptions.

Hansen said a $200 increase in the exemption—raising it to the $800 level advocated by Sen. George (D-Ga.) and others—is "realistic and justifiable" because of the rise in living costs during the past decade. He added:

"If $500 was a reasonable personal exemption in 1944, when we needed a very broad income tax base to finance the war, then the present day equivalent in real terms, namely $800, must be regarded as fair and reasonable."

Extoll Politics

Pittsburgh (AP)—State Sen. George M. Leader of York and Dr. William D. McClelland of Pittsburgh, both seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, joined in extolling the virtues of the political life.

Marine Corps League Will Attract 500 At Convention

An estimated 500 visitors a day are expected to attend the State convention of the Marine Corps League June 17-19 in Stroudsburg.

Those were the figures named by State commandant Charles Hellyer of Philadelphia yesterday during a planning conference in Stroudsburg with local chapter members.

The State league officials had been present since Saturday to work out details of the major convention. With Hellyer were Helen K. Tomon, convention secretary; Robert Bellino, Scranton, convention chairman; Leonard Richards, Upper Darby, convention commission member, and Capt. Maurice Rose, Northeast Pennsylvania Recruiting Division head of the Marine Corps.

Local officials were Donald Dimmick, Stroudsburg Rd. 2, Monroe County League commandant, and Mrs. Charles Staples, Shawnee, auxiliary president.

The convention will start officially with registration at the Penn-Stroud Hotel—convention headquarters—on June 16.

The convention proper opens June 17. There will be business sessions throughout the day, with detachments from throughout Pennsylvania represented.

Asked if any "pressure" had been exerted by anyone to shorten the hearing, McCarthy said he had not been approached in that regard because he hadn't initiated the hearing. He said he considers the hearing "the greatest waste of time" he has experienced since he has been in Washington, but since it has been started the committee should go through with it.

Asked to estimate how long he thought the hearing would continue McCarthy replied that at the present rate it probably would extend into 1970.

Easy Money System Under New Attack

Washington (AP)—The Council of State Chambers of Commerce yesterday attacked the "easy money system" of social security which it said is embodied in the administration's proposals to liberalize old age insurance.

In a report prepared for its 31 state and regional member organizations, the council held the administration bill would perpetuate the "illusion of insurance" while piling up costs which ultimately should be met.

The council made three recommendations:

One—Pension benefits "should not be raised to a point which would reduce the incentive for people to provide for their own security."

Two—A single federal security program for the aged and orphans is preferable to "the present dual program" of contributory social security and direct relief grants.

Three—Congress "should recognize the inevitable necessity of putting the program on a pay-as-you-go basis."

The council said that the present scale of benefits, which the administration bill introduced by Rep. Daniel Reed (R-N.Y.) would increase and extend to 10 million workers not now covered, gives to many retired persons benefits "many times the total of their payments."

Break Ball Game

Atmore, Ala. (AP)—A prison baseball game was broken up yesterday when 19 convicts cut their way to freedom through a wire fence at Atmore State Prison. Four were still at large last night and one guard has been fired and three others suspended.

Shirk Heads Jaycees

Philadelphia (AP)—Kenelm L. Shirk Jr., of Lancaster, is the new president of the Pennsylvania State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Shirk has heralded what could become a massive political struggle with India for the allegiance of hundreds of millions of Asian neutrals.

The tipoff came at Geneva last week when Peiping Premier Chou En-lai delivered his important "Asia for the Asians" speech.

Creating star-like chemical reactions in the laboratory.

It is known that some of the star researchers have access to the university's laboratory at nearby Livermore where much of the work on the hydrogen bomb development was done.

However, Dr. Phillips and Dr. Brewer did not specifically say they were using H-bomb facilities. Conceivably they could produce star-like heat with other equipment.

First Phillips and Brewer take some chemicals which they know exist in certain stars. They subject them to temperatures and pressures which they suspect exist in the stars themselves. The reactions they get may duplicate to some extent at least the chemical processes of the far-off stars.

An example Dr. Otto Struve, who heads the astronomy department here, is attempting to determine the chemical composition of a binary star. A binary actually is two stars so close together that they look like one in a telescope.

Instruments indicate that although the two stars are the same age they differ markedly in makeup. Dr. Struve and Dr. Helen Pillan are trying to determine their chemical differences.

If this can be done the researchers will have a new approach to an explanation of their behavior.

More knowledge of the chemical elements in stars will help astronomers to evolve theories about how some of them were formed.

Weather Kills Four; Damages Over Million

Oklahoma City (AP)—Oklahoma counted four lives lost, at least 63 injured in 25 communities, and property damage over a million dollars yesterday as the result of weekend tornadoes and floods.

Tornadoes, spawned by a 90-mile small line, killed Billy Shearer, 36, and his grandmother, Mrs. Anne Rubottom, 84, near Grandfield in southwest Oklahoma.

Frankie LaFaller, 21, Miami Okla., and Shirley Jester, 13, Poocasset, drowned in flash floods. LaFaller was thrown from a horse into a swollen creek in the northeast. Shirley was swept into a creek while trying to herd cattle, trapped by high waters, to higher ground.

The state headquarters of the Salvation Army, which sent crews into the storm areas, estimated property damage at above a million dollars. The twisters terrorized virtually every section of the state until midnight last night.

Both of Oklahoma's largest metropolitan centers, Tulsa and Oklahoma City, were in the path of the severe weather front which passed out of the state early yesterday.

Oklahoma City was drenched by a torrential three-inch downpour which flooded basements of at least 150 homes. Sirens sounded at Tulsa Saturday night when a twister roared threateningly overhead. Mrs. Ethel Olive Bowman, 57, died of a heart attack while rushing to a storm cellar there.

The big union, which has enjoyed seven rounds of wage increases since World War Two, must sit down at the bargaining table with an industry which for the first time in years is feeling the pinch of a business lag.

The decline in operations has caused layoffs and a good deal of part-time work for many of the union's 1,250,000 odd members.

McDonald, himself, said recently there are 189,344 workers employed from basic and fabricating plants. He said another 257,026 employees are working only part time.

The Wage Policy Committee will undoubtedly include demands for a wage increase and improved hospitalization and retirement benefits in any contract proposal it draws up. Just how much of a wage boost will be sought is hard to say, however.

The powerful committee devoted much time to study of a guaranteed annual wage at meetings held last fall in New York and indicated the guaranteed wage would be a major issue in 1954 contract talks.

Since then, however, the industry's production has fallen off and union talk about a guaranteed wage boost will be sought is hard to say, however.

Spence S. Allen, 67, well known Pen Argyl well drilling contractor, died suddenly while inspecting equipment on a Stroudsburg RD 2 farm at 11:45 a. m. Saturday.

Stroud School Directors Vote Tonight On Union Resolution

Issue Would Be Placed On Nov. Ballot

Stroud Township School board tonight becomes the first of three local districts to vote on a union resolution for school purposes.

If approved by voters in Stroud, Delaware Water Gap and Stroudsburg, the union will result in a combined education system for those three areas.

To set the union proposal in motion, each of the three boards must first approve a resolution asking that a petition for union be given to county commissioners.

This petition requests placement of the union question on regular election ballots during the November election. Before being turned over to commissioners, the petition must first have the approval of the State Departments of Public Instruction.

The resolution before Stroud members tonight, therefore, will be the first step toward placement of union before voters of that district in the Fall election.

A similar resolution will be taken up by Delaware Water Gap school directors at their board meeting on Wednesday night. Stroudsburg school commissioners will consider the union resolution last—on Thursday, May 13.

All three boards agreed to consider the resolution at regular board meetings this month. Decision was reached at a combined meeting of the boards last Wednesday, April 28 at Clearview school.

During that meeting directors heard two reports: one on the relative financial cost to individual districts without union as compared to the cost under the union system and a second report on the relative educational values under the two systems.

This was the second in a series of current combined board meetings. A third meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 26 in Delaware Water Gap with that board as host for the dinner.

Fire Will Be Called For Sentencing

Five men are scheduled for sentencing today at the May session of argument court. All pleaded guilty earlier.

Cases coming up for sentencing today involve:

Cecil Lawler and Robert Hutchinson Jr. of Phillipsburg, N. J., who pleaded guilty to three charges each of burglary.

LeRoy Treble, who entered a plea to three charges of burglary filed by DL&W Railroad police, and Caleb Martin Jr., who admitted to one count of burglary against the railroad.

David L. Miller, who admitted turning in false fire alarms in East Stroudsburg.

Barrett High Students To Test Driving Skills

Cresco—Barrett Township students will pit their driving skill against time in a series of tests at 10 a. m. Friday.

The tests, according to Andrew Lewis, school principal, are part of a safe-driving demonstration to be given on Route 90 in the Cresco-Paradise Valley region.

Giving the tests will be Frank Laderer, safety engineer with the Farm Bureau Insurance Company.

The session begins with a movie and talk on safety in the school auditorium.

In the demonstration which follows, students and faculty will take turns driving a specially-equipped automobile. The car has three .38 caliber revolvers mounted on its front bumper.

These revolvers fire yellow paint "bullets." A red light signals the driver to stop. At that precise instant the first of the revolvers automatically fires into the pavement. When the driver's foot hits the brake, the second round is discharged. A third revolver goes off when the car completes the stop.

Distance between the first two paint spots shows the driver's "reaction distance"—the time it takes him to react to an "emergency stop." Second and third paint spots measure the distance between "reaction," "action" and the total stop of the vehicle.

Tests will be conducted at 20, 30 and 40 miles per hour. Police officers will act as drivers in the high speed tests.

Friday's program will be sponsored by the Health and Safety Club at the Barrett school and will be open to the public.

Firemen Lose Engine To Impulsive Man

Chicago (AP)—Firemen from Engine Co. 4 noticed something was missing when they returned from a fire call early yesterday.

It was a fire engine.

Police found the engine parked at the curbside several blocks from the fire station, with a man at the wheel.

He said he took the shiny red truck on impulse, but refused to identify himself. He was identified as Martin McCarrich, 47, and was taken to Henrotin Hospital for examination.

Mr. Pittenger's body was found by a neighbor after the fire had burned away from the scene.

He had been pulling the heavy roller around his lawn and had apparently collapsed in the path of the flames, according to Pike County Coroner Dr. J. S. Bullock of Milford.

Pittenger's wife, waiting for him on the opposite side of the house, was unaware of what happened until told by a neighbor. The Pittengers had celebrated their 50th anniversary last June.

Mr. Pittenger was an Easton native and a retired Stewartsville farmer and rural mail carrier.

Livestock Disease Test Starts In Pike

The first laboratory has been in operation in western Pennsylvania for a year. A third unit is expected to be sent on the road soon.

A Study In Contrasts

The terrific contrast between the American and Communist ways of life never was more sharply drawn than it was Saturday.

Scattered across our nation, happy children took part in an old tradition that centers upon a flower-decked maypole.

In Burlington, a small town in Wisconsin, people held religious services, a parade, heard Americanism talks, staged open house for friends and neighbors at homes, businesses and industries, and took part in dancing in the streets. It was a special observance set up as "May Day—U. S. Way."

In the biggest city in the Soviet Union, jet planes zoomed overhead, drums beat, and guns, heavy tanks and marching men moved through the streets. In replica, the exact same thing was going on all over the Communist Russia.

Let's put it up to a vote:

1. The gay, flower-covered maypole with laughing children, carefree enjoyment, even dancing in the streets.

2. The clenched fist raised in salute, the parading of might.

May we have the next dance?

Nothing Is Impossible

Once again the aircraft industry has surmounted what appeared for a time to be an insurmountable obstacle, and thus demonstrated that nothing is impossible to the minds of the mechanical genius so frequently found in our world of modern flight.

The discovery was that by the Boeing Airplane Company of its ability to apply reverse thrust to jet engines and thus "apply the brakes" to hurtling craft as they speed along a runway after touching down.

Until the discovery of this ability to divert the powerful thrust of the jets in order to slow down the landing run, many a doleful prophet had been pronouncing the impossibility of such an achievement and declaring that the terrific speeds built into the new jet aircraft would be of no commercial value because runways many miles in length would be required to land them.

The Boeing plant, which appears at this time to be far ahead of other American aircraft manufacturers in design and production of experimental jet aircraft for eventual airline use, refused to admit that the slowing down of their big planes was a problem that could not be licked. Their recent announcement proves how right they were in this contention.

Later this summer the first prototype of what America will see flying its airlines is expected to take off from the Boeing plant on its initial flight test. From that flight until announcement by the airlines of the plane's availability to the public may be a decade or it may be surprisingly sooner.

Interesting point in the Court verdict is the revelation that, while Army warns servicemen never to give any information after capture, except name, rank, serial number and birthplace, Washington within a few days of Schwable's capture released full data to the press which proved he was holding out and which brought months of torture upon him!!! ### State Dept. Argument U. S. Industry - Can Match Low Wage Operations False

There has been considerable discussion during the past year or so on the relationship of metals and minerals to the effort to lower the American tariff. Some internationalists, such as Harold Stassen, are so anxious to lift the economies of other nations that they, perhaps witlessly, hurt our own. As in most things, a sense of proportion seems to be indicated.

I cite lead and zinc as objects worthy of our attention because should we go to war, these essential commodities will have to be mined on the American continents and may have to be transported on land once the sea lanes are closed down, as they well might be.

Lead and zinc are produced widely in the United States, including such states as New York and New Jersey, which one does not think of as mining states. The principal lead and zinc-producing areas are, of course, in the Rocky Mountain States.

The lead and zinc industry is always at risk from the dumping of low-priced imports on our market. This can result in the closing of American mines. There are those who might assert that if the American miners cannot produce these commodities in competition, let us say, with African miners, the Americans should shut down. On the other hand, in time of war, should the sea lanes be unavailable, shall we have to have a wildcat frenzy to reopen these mines and to get them working again?

The United States Defense Materials Procurement Agency is reported to have advanced up to $680,000 for the development of Algerian lead production. The company in Constantine, Algeria, is French-owned and it was reported that it would "repay the loan by deliveries of lead. This might or might not be a good deal for this country, provided the American mines remain open and are available in time of war.

Otto Herres, chairman of the National Lead and Zinc Committee, quotes a news item from Northern Rhodesia which gives some picture (in 1952 and it is not likely to have changed much) of the American miners' difficulties.

"The African Mine Workers Union called to 23,000 members out on strike today to support demands for a two shillings and eightpence (37c) per shift raise . . . During negotiations the union rejected a fourpence (5c) per shift raise offer by the companies. The average pay of an African underground worker is four pounds sterling ($11.20) a month plus room and board."

American wages for comparable workers are approximately $360 a month. Wages run about $1.94 an hour. In a word, the American mine worker receives for one day's work about the same amount as an African receives in a month.

Our economy has become so complex because of the condition of permanent war that it is impossible to view any problem from a peacetime standpoint. For instance, the Malay Peninsula and adjacent countries are im-

The Stage: The theatre's traditional season-end recession is making it tougher for plays to pass their physicals. A pair succumbed last night and several other weaklings will depart soon. About 10 shows are expected to survive the humid months . . .

For a while it was wonderful. After a bit more than a week I had lost two pounds, and I was again on the way to losing some more.

Then I started to moseadegh. When the wife was out shopping I sneaked to her candy box and swiped a few pieces of chocolate-covered fruits or nuts. Or I'd go to the refrigerator and cut me a slice of bread, spread a half inch of butter on it, cover the whole business with a slab of ham and have myself a feast.

Pretty soon my weight went up again. My wife told me that she couldn't understand how, on such a rigid diet as mine, I could gain weight.

Now, on a dinner of lamb chops, spinach and bit of fruit for dessert, could I have put on four pounds in one week?

Then my conscience started to bother me. I quit the snacks—and now my weight is almost back to normal again.

Isn't there an old proverb that the way to hell is paved with good intentions?

And the surest way to get there is by not translating good intentions into deeds.

Cultural Rebirth Of Danes After War Theme Of Final AAUW Meeting For Season

The story of Denmark's revival of culture after the German occupation during the war was told with insight and charm by Mrs. Gerda Christenson, studying in this country as a University Woman's Study Grant, at the final meeting of the local branch of AAUW on Friday night at the Stroud Community house.

Mrs. Christenson, now concluding a nine-month leave from the ministry of education in Copenhagen, stressed especially the progress in education. Denmark, she pointed out, has always been a leader in education with its famed University at Copenhagen, dating back to 1479, and another university at Aarhus thriving after 25 years.

However, the teachers and students of Denmark were the most outspoken in defense of the freedom of Denmark, and with the occupation by the Germans were the first to be sent into concentration camps, forced into exile, or voluntarily withdrew into the underground.

"Free universities are the greatest threat to totalitarian systems," she said, and that fact was amply proven in Denmark. During the days when Denmark's scientists like physicists Niels Bohr escaped to help with atomic research in America, education in Denmark stood still, she said.

Since the war with help from the Rockefeller Foundation, Marshall Aid, and the Fulbright scholarships which have enabled Danish scholars to catch up on developments, Denmark has again come to the fore, she said.

The Folk High Schools, established by the poet and theologian N. F. S. Grundtvig in 1844, have always had a big part in making Denmark among the most educated people in the world.

Originally designed for rural youth, from about 18 to 25 who wished to return to school after they had worked for a while, these folk high schools are now being established for industrial workers as well. Night courses in the universities, the university professors who go on lecture tours to bring culture to all the villages, and especially the libraries are important factors in the Danish education system, she said.

Recently each community was required by law to institute and maintain its own library, so that learning is available in every section, she said.

Denmark with its 4 million people and a land area less than one-third the size of New York State, is a very small piece in the mosaic of the war devastation, yet its inhabitants felt as deeply as any the forces of totalitarianism during the five years of the occupation.

With the war's end, there was a rebirth of the nation as its citizens came back from concentration camps, back from exile, when the Parliament held its first free election, the free press could function.

ever, after that first rejoicing, that freedom, to be maintained, must be worked for every day, and that it is as much a spiritual struggle as one against outside pressure.

She listed among the influences which strengthened the Danes poets such as Morton Neilson, whose "Warriors Without Weapons" kept high the spirit of resistance during the war; dramatists like Kaj Munk, whose martyrdom at the hands of the German police did much to inspire the spiritual rising of the people to meet the crises.

However, after the war, while poets, novelists and dramatists all stressed the obligation of people toward their fiber, there was a general sense of hopelessness and dismay embodied in the "Heretic" representing the leading literary figures of Denmark.

Recently each community was required by law to institute and maintain its own library, so that learning is available in every section, she said.

Fortunately for the clubs which meet in the Stroud Community House most of the meetings are held in the winter time when the windows are closed. At night with the windows open the steady stream of big trucks gunning their motors at the Ninth St. light make a terrific racket that practically drowns out the speech.

When, as in the case of the AAUW speaker, Dr. Gerda Christenson, the speaker has a slight accent, you want to make sure you sit far up front. She was charming, and must be terribly smart as well to be so learned and so young.

This also is the season for school field trips, thunderstorms, peepers in the swamp, and the ground white as snow with falling apple blossoms.

And she must also have been

Recipe Deadline Set For May 26

Tannersville—The Young Adult Class of St. Paul's Lutheran Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Law on Wednesday night. Members and friends were reminded the deadline for sending in recipes for the Cook Book is May 26, the date of the next meeting of the group.

The class members are also collecting flour coupons to be turned back to the company for redemption and will appreciate any that will not otherwise be used. Names for calendars should be turned in as soon as possible.

Miss Ora Pendleton, county agency director of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania, will be a guest at the meeting.

After the ceremony and games and songs, refreshments were served. The three fly-ups had planned the refreshments and were assisted by Mrs. Beldier and Mrs. Raub.

The troop is now getting ready for the Spring hike by making first aid kits and "sit-ups." A sort of preview of their outdoor meeting was the Easter egg hunt held at LaBar's Nursery the Wednesday before Easter. Mrs. Russell Harmon and Mrs. S. M. Monatt are leaders of the troop.

Bushkill PTA Prepares For Final Meeting

Bushkill—The Bushkill PTA met last week at the school with Fran Messerle, president, presiding. Mrs. Marshall Keiper reported on the Easter party which was held for the children, when the PTA provided the candy and members donated eggs and cakes.

Those attending were Douglas Giffels, Kit Sanborn, Eddie Hall, Teddy Hall, Terry Jones, Linda Bell, Pat Flory, David Toms, Mrs. LeRoy Cruse, Mrs. David Toms. Joey Small had also been invited but was unable to attend.

Mrs. William Laubner as a special committee informed the group that she would make a final report at the business meeting on May 21. The president met with the Board of School Directors at their meeting and reported that the board will spray the poison ivy on the school grounds in the near future. The board also will inquire of the State as to the possibility of running the lunch program through the full period.

A motion was made to amend the by-laws of the association to the extent that officers of the association would be elected from the floor on the next meeting, May 21. This motion was approved. Mrs. Horton Stettler and Mrs. Marshall Keiper were hostesses and served refreshments.

This class is sponsoring another bake sale on May 8 at Metzgar's Market, starting at 10:30. The class members are also collecting flour coupons to be turned back to the company for redemption and will appreciate any that will not otherwise be used. Names for calendars should be turned in as soon as possible.

Those who were at the meeting were Rev. Edward Horn, Frank Horn, Mrs. Charles Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rowe, Mrs. Betty Woodring, Charles Brader and the hosts, who served refreshments during the social hour.

Family Supper At Pocono Union On Thursday Night

Paradise—The April meeting of the Paradise Women's Society of World Service was held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Laura Goll, with newly-elected president, Mrs. Paul Barry, opening the meeting with prayer. Scripture reading was by Mrs. Martha Henry, secretary of missionary education.

Guests present included Mrs. Evelyn Hill, Mrs. Sophie Beiter, Mrs. Edythe Price for the use of their home for quilting and to the women who did the quilting.

Mrs. Josephine Falcone was maid of honor and wore a white strapsless gown with matching mitts. Her bouffant skirt of tulle was trimmed with scallops of imported Italian lace. She wore her mother's heirloom veil caught in a crown of tiny tulle leaves trimmed with seed pearls and sequins and carried a prayer book with five baby orchids.

Miss De Vito was among those who "got away from it all" Saturday evening. Bought a few sandwiches and milk shakes, and enjoyed them along the creek bank out near Glen Brook. Everyone enjoyed it, I understand, except the fishermen who somehow feel that giggling girls add nothing to tranquility or the day's catch.

Two beautiful dolls—a brother and sister—have just arrived in our gift department from Holland, and are they adorable! Standing over a foot tall, they are dressed authentically from their caps to their wooden shoes, and they walk with all more matching head-dresses of nylon leaves.

Michael De Vito, brother of the bride was best man and Richard Neffie, a cousin and Walter Smith were ushers.

A reception was held in their honor at Ye Saylor's Inn, Saylorsburg, where a buffet luncheon was served.

Mrs. Dougherty will entertain the club on Wednesday May 12 which is the date of their next semi-monthly meeting.

The club extended its thanks to Miss Jennie Wilson and Mrs. Edythe Price for the use of their home for quilting and to the women who did the quilting.

Guaranteed Care Offered By Local Firm

If you have a bad cold, you call the family doctor. If something goes haywire with your car's engine, you call an experienced mechanic.

The same sort of thing applies to your expensive furs and woolens. They deserve protection against the ravages of summer heat and the danger of moths.

Why trust their safety to anyone but an expert . . . a specialist who has invested thousands of dollars in equipment to make sure his customers get guaranteed protection.

Did you know that one of the East's most modern fur storage and dry cleaning plants is literally "right in your own back yard?"

It's the Hintze plant, located next to the Bell Telephone Co. on S. Seventh St., Stroudsburg.

The plant is almost unique for an area this size.

Dominant part of the plant is a huge cold storage vault. It offers unprecedented service to the people of this region.

Customers not only get the absolute in cold storage protection, but they are safe in the knowledge their garments stay right here in Stroudsburg. There are no worries about damage to the garment or losses due to transportation. Because garments stay right here and are not stored in other localities, a customer can have her things returned on a moment's notice.

As Elwood Hintze, owner-manager of the plant explains, "they are always as near as your telephone."

Storage fees at the Hintze plant are fixed on a 12-month basis. A customer who places a garment in the vault may store it for a full year without accruing extra charges.

THIS SLEEK POWER take-off baler is the newest machine on the 1954 haying scene. Just announced by New Holland Machine Company, it was previewed by Van D. Yetter, local New Holland Dealer at a recent meeting in New Holland, Pa. Engineers say the Model 66 power take-off baler is the fastest P. T. O. baler made, with a capacity of up to 7 tons an hour. The new baler's over-riding clutch makes P. T. O. hay baling practical.

Petroleum engineers say the ideal auto fuel economy is 98 octane and 10 to 1 compression ratios in the engines; present ideal auto fuel economy is 98 octane and 8.7 to 1 compression.

With it, farmers can now shift gears, up or down, to meet changing windrow conditions. Bigger windrows can be handled without choking or stalling. And there's a slip clutch on the Model 66 P. T. O. to protect miler and tractor even under fast full-power starts and heavy loads.

The power take-off unit has a built-in safety shield. And there's an easy-hitch adjustable draw bar for convenience.

All features of the New Holland's engine Model 66 are kept on the power take-off baler. Pre-compression

Van D. Yetter Previews Two New Boilers At New Holland Machine Co. Plant Meeting

Two new balers for grasslanders in this area were previewed by Van D. Yetter at a special meeting held by New Holland Machine Company in New Holland, Pa.

Mr. Yetter said one new machine is a power take-off Model 66 New Holland baler. The P. T. O. 66 is designed particularly for the family-size farm. And the new machine's lower price makes it especially appealing to farmers who have small hay acreages.

The second machine is the Super 77, a twine-tying baler with 20% more capacity than New Holland's previous big-capacity twine balers.

The Model 66 P. T. O. is described by engineers as the "fastest power take-off baler ever built." It will bring the benefits of automatic baling to even more farmers, New Holland Machine Company officials announced.

Probably the most important feature on the new baler, according to engineers, is the over-running clutch. This clutch, they said, mawkes power take-off baling practical.

With it, farmers can now shift gears, up or down, to meet changing windrow conditions. Bigger windrows can be handled without choking or stalling. And there's a slip clutch on the Model 66 P. T. O. to protect miler and tractor even under fast full-power starts and heavy loads.

pression baling gives it a capacity of up to six bales a minute—7 tons an hour—with any two-plow tractor.

The Model 66 P. T. O. features as standard equipment adjustable bale length control and roll-away bale chute. Knotters are the same as on the Model 66 and Model 77 New Holland Balers.

Besides its increased capacity, the Super 77 is designed for lower maintenance and operating costs.

An exclusive is the main plunger on roller bearings, which means fewer adjustments and low upkeep on this mechanism. Sealed roller bearing cam followers also mean longer service for the owner.

The power take-off unit has a built-in safety shield. And there's an easy-hitch adjustable draw bar for convenience.

All features of the New Holland's engine Model 66 are kept on the power take-off baler. Pre-compression

Dorrance Mines Layoff Imminent

Wilkes-Barre (PA) — The Lehigh Valley Coal Company says it is putting its Dorrance mines here on a standby basis, indicating lay-off of 400 employees may come within a week.

H. W. Bradbury, chairman of the new board of directors, said the decision was prompted by a policy of reducing losses and at the same time increasing efficiency. He added that elimination of "unnecessary" administrative and executive expenses had resulted in other savings.

ACTOR ROBERT TAYLOR, 43, and German actress Ursula Thiess, 30, are shown after they announced their engagement in Hollywood, Calif. They plan to be married early this summer. Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck were divorced in 1951 after an 11-year marriage. Miss Thiess divorced her German husband before coming to the United States.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Threatening weather and rain ushered in the Pocono Mountains League and Pocono Mountains Association, as the two diamond circuits launched their respective schedules with a full slate of games yesterday. Speaking of the Pocono Mountains League brings to mind the fact that members of the Tannersville club and Harry Werkheiser, Pocono High coach, worked into the late hours Saturday night and again yesterday morning to finish construction of a new backstop and batting cage for yesterday's opening encounter with Barrett. Ray Steele, former East Stroudsburg High basketball and baseball star, recently pitched for Lancaster, of the Piedmont League, against the parent Philadelphia A's in an exhibition tilt.

Bob Brown, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College distance runner, skips around the mile and two-mile courses as if out for a stroll. Brown, a football star at ESSTC and former Emmaus High student, is a marvelously conditioned athlete and youngsters of the area would be smart to watch Brown run and to pattern themselves after him. In his last two outings over the two-mile route, Bob has lapped at least a portion of the field. He hasn't extended the lead bit in either the mile or two-mile run on Saturday against Fairleigh-Dickinson.

In answer to a query: Fairleigh-Dickinson College is located in both Rutherford and Teaneck, N.J. The school's main campus at Rutherford, is 10 acres. But a new campus at Teaneck covers 40 acres. It is a comparatively new school that is making great strides in athletics, particularly basketball. ESSTC opposes Fairleigh-Dickinson in baseball, track and tennis, but has dropped the New Jersey school in basketball. Bruce Mooley, one of the half-milers for ESSTC, is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High, class of 1953. Bruce finished second in Saturday's half-mile grind.

ESSTC will pit its strength against a powerful track machine in Montclair State Teachers College next Saturday. The meet is listed for the New Jersey school's home track. Montclair reportedly features an outstanding quarter-mile. Bill Bachman, well known stock car driver who used to operate out of Middlebury, N.Y., is now a resident of Bangor. Bill will drive with other members of the Liberty Stock Car Association at Stroudsburg Speedway this summer. The local half-mile oval opens on Saturday, May 22. All racing will take place under the lights.

Wilson Borough and Bangor High schools wound up in disagreement in last Friday's Lehigh-Northampton League baseball game, played at Bangor's Memorial Park field. It seems the Bangor scorer, who was the official scorer, ruled that Dale LaBar's smash off the pitcher's glove in the fifth inning was a base hit, the lone safety obtained by Bangor during the course of the game. Wilson on the other hand had a much different view of the play. Wilson maintains that the blow was an error by George Helm, the visiting pitcher, as he threw wild to first base.

Bangor maintains that LaBar had the play beaten at first base and continued to second on the wild throw. Wilson, coached by Carlton Berger, went on to hang up an 8-1 verdict. Berger was once an assistant football and basketball mentor at Stroudsburg High, Slatington High requested that Friday's Lehigh Valley League baseball game with Stroudsburg begin at 3:30 instead of the usual 4 p.m. time. Slatington coach Roy Schleifer let it be known that his school requested the early start so as to make certain that the contest wouldn't be halted by darkness, although it doesn't get dark until 8 p.m., meaning that the game would have to run for four and one-half hours before darkness could halt the contest. Stroudsburg plays a twice postponed game at Whitehall today, and then invades Lehighton on Friday.

Harry Warner, one of the most popular athletes in Monroe County, left for Salem, Oregon, early yesterday morning from Philadelphia. Harry made the trip by airplane. The Milwaukee Braves assigned Warner's contract to the class "A" Western International League club, Trenton State Teachers, located in Jersey City. West Chester is sporting an undefeated baseball club at the present time.

Tobyhanna dropped an 8-5 Industrial Softball League decision to Maxson, in Old Forge on Friday. Slatington presented one of the biggest high school baseball clubs, physically speaking, that this reporter has ever witnessed. Stroudsburg has accounted for only four hits in two Lehigh Valley games this season. Paul "Doc" Lim lashed out all three Stroudsburg safeties against Palmerston, while Karl Weingartner came up with the only safety against Dick Nissen, Slatington mound ace, on Friday.

VICTORY SCAMPER—Rod MacLeod, Daily Record photographer, caught John Parks, above, skipping over one of the hurdles while enroute to victory in the 120-yard high hurdles event on Saturday. This was one of two events won by the ESSTC star, who also registered a second place finish.

GOING UP—Dick Berish, ESSTC high jumper, is shown above attempting to clear the bar in the high jump event against Fairleigh-Dickinson on Saturday. John McAndrew, a team mate of Berish's, went on to cop the event with a leap of six feet and give the Warriors five important points toward a team victory.

ESSTC Easily Wins Second Track Meet

Three Runs In Tenth Decide Issue

Gilbert—Three runs in the 10th inning by Lake Harmony yesterday broke up a pitching duel between Dick Persons and George "Dutch" Snyder, as last season's title holder opened the present Pocono Mountains Baseball League campaign with a thrilling 3-0 decision over West End A.C.

The contest was played on the West End field.

Bob Brown, Ted Murray and John Parks were all double winners for the Warriors, as the home team won the first event and was never headed the remainder of the day.

Brown wasn't threatened in either of his specialties, the mile and two mile, and easily outdistanced the field in both events.

Three Events

Parks won the javelin throw and scampered to victory in the 120-yard low hurdles. Parks also finished second in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Murray won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Other winners for ESSTC were Gary Panovec, former Wilson Borough High ace, 440-yard dash; Russ Liedy, pole vault, and John McAndrew, high jump.

Tannersville Wins Over Barrett, 7-6

Tannersville — Tannersville scored seven runs in the first inning here yesterday and then held on until rain halted play in the home half of the fifth inning to score a 7-6 verdict over Barrett. The contest was played on the Pocono High field.

The Pocono Mountains League contest was "called" with Jim "Red" Makosky at bat, with the count three balls and two strikes. Action had been held up for 20 minutes in the fourth inning. There was no chance to restart the contest after the fifth inning downpour.

Blast Price

Tannersville blasted Lamar Price from the hill with seven counters in the first frame and then withstood a strong bid by Barrett to win.

Barrett touched Dan Smalcombe for two runs in the third and then drove the righthander from the hill with four counters in the top of the fifth. Dick Pečekatka, veteran right hander, came on the scene to halt the upheaval.

Tigers Rally To Divide With Yankees

New York (P) — Southpaw Billy Hoof pitched a one-hitter as the Detroit Tigers defeated the New York Yankees 4-0 to gain a split in their doubleheader with the New York Yankees yesterday after the Yanks had won the opener 12-4. The second game was halted after five innings on account of darkness.

Andy Carey's double to left center with two out in the fifth prevented the young Tiger hurler from turning in a no-hitter. It would not have counted in the records, however, since all no-hitters must go the full nine innings distance.

Third Loss

Ray Boone's second inning home run was all the Tigers needed to win but the Yankees handed them three more unearned runs by committing five errors. Harry Byrd, hard-luck Yankee righthander, was the loser, dropping his third game in as many starts this season.

Hoof struck out six batters, getting four of them in succession. He fanned the side in the third and threw a third strike past Willie Miranda to start the fourth.

In contrast to the nightcap when for the third straight time they failed to score a run while Byrd was on the mound, the Yankees gave their best bunting demonstration of the season in the opener. They collected 13 hits off four Tiger hurlers and pounded across six runs in the third, their most productive inning of the campaign. Ted Gray was the victim, quitting under fire in that frame to absorb his second defeat against no victories.

Indians Tame Senators Twice

Washington (P) — Cleveland rallied with two out in the ninth inning to score the tying run, then got three runs more with two men out in the 10th to defeat Washington, 6-3, in the second game of a double-header yesterday. Cleveland also beat the Senators, 6-4, in the opener.

Wally Westlake's bases-loaded double in the 10th off loser Johnny Schmitz carried the Indians to their sixth straight victory after Larry Doby scored Bobby Avila from third base in the ninth inning to tie the score.

Five Straight

The Senators, who have lost five in a row, were restricted to six hits by Art Houtteman, who registered his first win. Westlake led the 13-hit attack on Schmitz with three singles in addition to his decisive double.

Valo's Hit Enables A's To Split With Chisox

Philadelphia (P) — Elmer Valo's first hit of the season—a pinch single off the right field wall in the ninth inning—scored Bill Renna and gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday. Chicago took the opener 4-0 behind Don Johnson's two-hit pitching.

Two homers helped Johnson win the first game for the league-leading White Sox, who are averaging a home run a game this season.

Outburst

Rookie outfielder Bill Wilson broke up the scoreless pitching duel between Morris Martin and Johnson with a drive to the left field roof after Johnny Groth walked to open the seventh. One out later, "Chico" Carrasquel boomed his third homer into the upper deck in left.

Two errors on Minnie Minoso's hopper by relief pitcher Ed Bartsch and Ferris Fain's sacrifice fly gave the winners an extra run in the ninth.

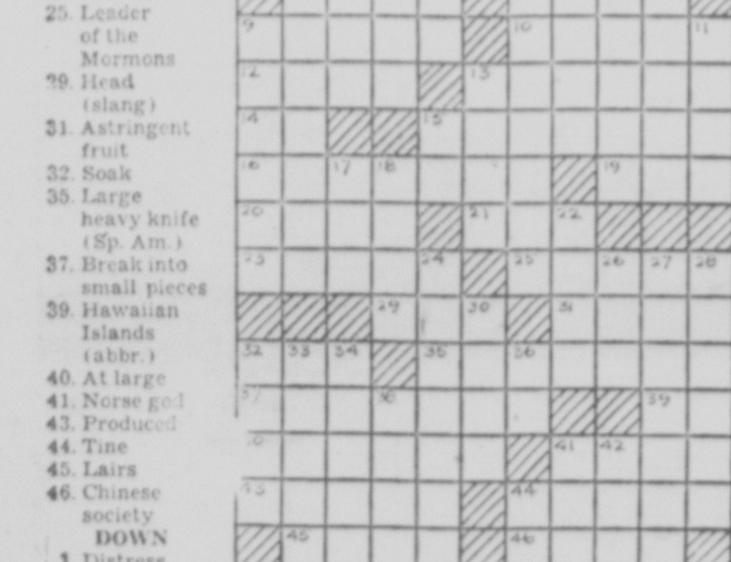

Valo batted for Jim Robertson and laced a 2-2 pitch high off the right field barrier. White Sox outfields didn't even try for a play on the ball and Valo didn't bother for a cinch double.

Musial Sets Record As Cards Gain Even Break With Giants

St. Louis (P) — Stan Musial yesterday broke one major league record and tied another by blasting five home runs in a doubleheader divided by the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants. The Cards won the opener, 10-6, and the Giants the nightcap, 9-7. There were 12 homers in the two games.

Musial, six-time National League batting champion, smashed the major league mark for most homers hit in a twinbill—four—and became the sixth man in history to hammer five in two consecutive games, afeat last accomplished by Don Mueller of the Giants on September 1, 1951.

Musial whacked three of his home runs in the first game, including a three-run eighth-inning drive off Jim Hearn that broke a 6-6 tie. It was the first time in his brilliant major league career that the St. Louis slugger had hit three home runs in one game.

Nightcap

In the nightcap Stan drove in three runs with his two homers to give him nine runs batted in for the day while raising his batting average to .400. He walked twice, flied deep to center field and popped out in addition to his five homers which gave him a total of eight, tying Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs for the major league leadership.

Musial merely set the pace for slugging in the rain-delayed doubleheader watched by 26,662, the Cardinals finished with eight homers and New York four.

In the opener "Whitey" Lockman and Wes Westrum hit back-to-back fifth-inning homers off starter Gerry Staley and Monte Irvin whacked one off reliever and winner Al Brazle.

Schine Quickly Gets Wish To Be 'Somebody'

Without Shots Of Anger He's Public Private

By Saul Pett

New York (AP)—As his father says, G. David Schine always wanted "to be somebody"—some-one special.

He is.

Gerard David Schine, without firing a shot in anger, is now America's most public private.

Regardless of who was at fault in the current fight between Sen. McCarthy and the Pentagon, was there ever another private who gave the Army more trouble, including even "Private Hargrove?"

Was there ever another private lined up in such a public fracas, viewed by millions, against Army generals, against the secretary of the Army and, any inference, against the President of the United States, himself?

How many others ever had their picture taken with the secretary of the Army? How many ever touched off so much discussion, controversy and so many jokes as are sweeping the country these days? As for example: "If Secretary Stevens behaves himself, Schine will give him a week-end pass."

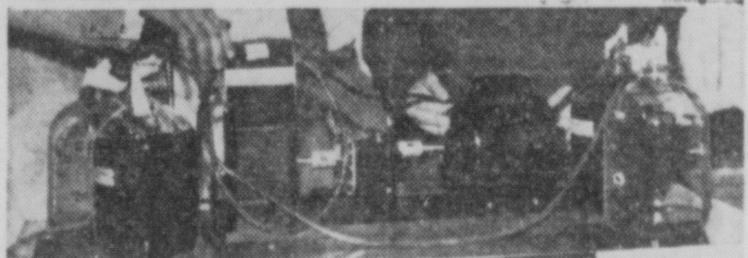

Stevens' testimony raised another intriguing question: What other prospective inductee could find it in his heart to assure the secretary of the Army that he, the secretary, was "doing a good job" and that, if he'd like help, this prospective inductee was ready to serve as his special assistant?

But then, it must be remembered, he is an unusual young man. He is tall and uncommonly handsome, with blue eyes and light brown, wavy hair. He is only 26 but possessed of rare poise and self-confidence.

At 22, he became President and general manager of his father's chain of eight hotels, including the Roney Plaza in Miami and the Ambassador in Los Angeles. The family also owns about 150 movie theaters throughout the country.

At 25, he became chief consultant to a subcommittee of the U.S. Senate.

There was a time when Schine was not adverse to interviews. Not

THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA reported that corrective operations have been performed on three children with crippling heart defects by cross-transfusing their blood into the fathers' lungs during the surgery. Two of the children are alive, with their hearts in good condition. The third died of pneumonia eleven days after the operation. None of the fathers showed any ill effects from the procedure. At top, the patient, Pamela Schmidt, 5, lies on the right table, while her father, Ronald, lies on the left table, as the surgical team in the Variet-y Club Hospital, Minneapolis, operates. Pamela's heart is disconnected from her circulation system and joined through a simple pump to her father's. Both blood systems are made to function as one. Pamela's heart was disconnected from her circulation for 13½ minutes. In center, the pump used in the "impossible" operation. Below, Pamela is shown with her mother; Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, head of the operating team (which included Drs. Morley Cohen and Herbert E. Warden), and Ronald Schmidt (right), her father.

Soviet Union's Big Push Is Still On Industry, Military

By Tom Whitney
AP Foreign Staff

Despite all the ballyhoo in the Soviet Union about more consumer goods, the big push is still on heavy industry and the military might that it creates.

The latest figures from Moscow show the amount the Soviet government is allotting this year for the development of heavy industry is more than six times the amount being devoted to the consumer industries.

Other statistics disclosed a few days ago in the Supreme Soviet by Premier Malenkov show that rather than slackening the pace of development of the military-potential industries of the country this coming year, the Kremlin is planning to push it to a new high.

In 1954 the Soviet Union will devote to capital investment in steel, non-ferrous metallurgy, electric power stations, coal, petroleums, chemicals, timber, the construction industry and the machinery industries just a little less money than the announced budget for the large Soviet armed forces.

The sum which is to go for new plant alone for these heavy industries is 90 billion rubles. At the official rate of exchange between the ruble and the dollar of four rubles to one dollar which in case may understate the physical buying power of the over-all sum involved this amounts to about 23 billion dollars.

Putting it another way: on Soviet standards of payment of industrial executives and labor, it is enough money to buy not quite 11 million man-years of work. One man-year equals the work of one man for one year.

Putting everything into perspective, it is still of course true that

Mrs. Edward May

Carl Major Sr., of East Stroudsburg, was a caller in the community on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Christman of Allentown, called on the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Christman recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Court and family, of Pen Argyl, visited their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward May on Sunday.

Word has been received here by relatives that Mrs. Daisy Court was to leave Sarasota, Fla., on April 30 and stop in Baltimore, Md., where she will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Lebela. She will spend the summer at the Pocono Lake Preserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Moyer visited Charles Moyer Sr., at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg on Sunday afternoon.

The Youth Fellowship of the Evangelical and Reformed Church has been collecting funds to help Charles Mintzer buy an artificial leg.

And as usual the biggest investment of all and the biggest output increase scheduled is for the machinery industries. The machinery industries in Russia are devoted almost entirely to the production of capital equipment and arms. Their output has been rocketing upwards year after year.

Putting everything into perspective, it is still of course true that so in these days of strife. During a session of the committee hearing into the charges and counter-charges fired by Sen. McCarthy and the Army, I found him standing in a corridor outside the Senate caucus room in Washington.

Would Schine answer a few questions? He shook his head silently. Could he be interviewed later in the day? He shook his head silently. Would he answer any questions unrelated to the controversy? He shook his head silently, held up his arms, and retreated a few steps.

Suddenly he stepped forward and, like a cautious witness setting the record absolutely straight, he said, aloud, "but I didn't say a word to you, sir."

By phone, I interviewed his father, J. Myer Schine, at the hotel he owns in Boca Raton, Fla. He was obviously upset by the controversy swirling around his son.

"It's just a lot of smear and abuse," he said.

As a boy, was David particularly ambitious?

"His ambition always was to be somebody," the elder Schine said. "He was always very bright, very capable, thorough and systematic."

It is true David has many girl friends?

"That's just another smear," he said.

At this point, he expressed fear that "they're tapping the phone," but didn't elaborate.

At Harvard which he entered in 1945, Schine majored in political science. Few people there remember him because he was said to be a "loner." Those who do say he was a "playboy with plenty of money and a Cadillac."

Interrupted by a year in the Army Transport Service, Schine returned to Harvard and got his degree in 1950.

After a brief apprenticeship, David Schine became president and general manager of the hotel chain in 1950. Shortly thereafter, according to Roy Cohn, friend and former colleague, he helped organize "Young Presidents of America," whose members are limited to men under 40 who head firms netting at least $1,000,000 a year.

In 1952, Schine wrote and circulated in the Schine hotels a six-page pamphlet, "definition of Communism."

He went to work for the McCarthy subcommittee Feb. 6, 1953 as its chief and only consultant on a non-salary basis.

Cohn, who has known him four or five years, said Schine had "written some plans for fighting Communism through psychological warfare which were used in part by the Defense Department in the previous administration." I was unable to find Defense Department sources to confirm or deny this.

On Jan. 17, 1954, the McCarthy subcommittee announced it had "forced" the State Department to halt the building of a huge Voice of America transmitter near Seattle. The project, said the committee, had been "mis-located" in areas of atmospheric disturbance and could be replaced at one-tenth the cost further south.

Cohn said it was Schine who found the engineer who persuaded other experts the site was wrong. He said taxpayers thus were saved $10,000,000 and "Dave was solely responsible."

Schine is credited by Cohn with a "major part" in the Voice of America investigation.

Two months after Schine joined the committee staff, he and Cohn staged an 18-day whirlwind tour of Western Europe, looking for suspect books and authors in U. S. Information Center libraries. The young team got mixed notices in the states and consistently bad reviews abroad.
